

Dr. Grant Miller

Grant Miller is an equine veterinarian who graduated from the UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine in 2004. Since graduating, he obtained certifications in acupuncture, chiropractic, dentistry, and forensics and co-authored a book in 2010 regarding the Minimum Standards of Horse Care in the State of California. Now in its 5th edition, the book has been used to pass horse welfare laws in thirteen states in the USA. Dr. Miller trains animal Humane offices nationally on techniques to manage equine Humane cases so that fair and successful prosecution of alleged crimes occurs. He still practices veterinary medicine in northern California and works with local law enforcement on equine Humane case investigations.
